These hits, with a base on balls, McGann being hit by the pitcher, and an error by Reed, netted the visitors runs and won the game. The game abounded in brilliant fielding, the two double plays made by the visitors being particularly fine plays. The score:

SYMPATHY FOR VICTIMS. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., August 1— Late last night Franklin P. Stoy, Mayor of Atlantic City, prepared a proclamation to be issued to the stricken visitors—those who have lost friends and relatives in the wreck or have themselves been injured. It is as follows:

"PROCLAMATION TO THE PUBLIC.
"In the midst of a bright, gay season, the pall of death has fallen like a shroud over our city by the sea, and some two score of our visitors have been killed and many wounded by a collision as terrible as it was unforeseen. The Dry-Goods Market.

NEW YORK, August 1.—To-day's drygoods market has ruled exceedingly quiet throughout. Spot business has been slow, and although mail orders are occaslomally reported as showing some improvement in seasonable fabrics, they have not in the aggregate accounted for more than a moderate business. The month has seen a great curtailment in production, and in this lies the market's safety. Prices have not felt the benefit as yet, except in the arrest of the downward tendency, but that they will do so is one of the probabilities of the not distant future.

through Mr. Barney's head was fired with suicidal intent. He was found lying on the floor of his office, and the pistol lay between his legs.

The news of Mr. Barney's death was re ceived here shortly before noon yesterday, and created great surprise and sorrow, as he was well known, and had many as he was well known, and had many friends in the city. The information was brought to Chester by a colored man, sent from the farm to file a telegram from Mrs. Barney to Mr. Irvin Weisiger, superintendent of the Navigation Company, telling him of Mr. Barney's death, and requesting him to come down at once. Mrs. Barney's message did not indicate how her husband had come to his end, but from the statement of the farm-hand it was inferred that he had committed suicide.

Mr. Barney was one of the last men that one would have expected to choose such a death. He was light-hearted and jovial, and seemed to have much to live for. With a happy family, a bright and beautiful home, splendid estates, and large business interests, the world apparently had much to charm and satisfy him. It had been known for a long time by the friends and business acquaintances of Mr. Barney that his health was far from good. He was of a cheerful disposition, but was sick much of the time, and James river, in Chesterfield county, just below Drewry's Bluff, in the improvement of which he has expended many thousands of dollars, and which, under his care and management, is now one of the most valuable private estates in Virginia. It is a large plantation, much of which has been reclaimed from the river by dyking, on which stands a magnificent country residence. Hesides his large investments in Virginia, Mr. Barney was interested in the Dayton, (O.) Car-Works, one of the largest manufacturing enterprises in the West. His expenditure of money for the improvement of his Virginia property was lavish, and evidently made heavy inroads on his fortune, which, when he came to this estate, was estimated at from a half million to a million dollars.

Mr. Edward E. Barney, owner of two or three of the finest estates on the lower James and president of the Virginia Navigation Company, shot and killed himself yesterday morning at "Meadowville," his beautiful place in Chesterfield county, a few miles below Dutch Gap.

The details received here up to a late hour last night were rather meagre, but the circumstances attending the tragedy indicate that the bullet that was sent through Mr. Barney's head was fired with

VISIT TO MEADOWVILLE.

As soon as Superintendent Weisiger, of the Virginia Navigation Company, received Mrs. Barney's telegram, he left in a buggy for Meadowville, to render such service to the family as he could. He found the household in the deepest sorrow. The impression that had reached here that Mr. Barney shot himself intentionally was found to be true. He was alone in his room about 7:29 A. Mr. Barney was 43 years of age, and a son of Mr. Edward E. and Mrs. Julia 8 Barney. He married early in life, and leaves five children—three daughters and two sons. One of his sons is Captain James Barney, well known in military circles. Mr. Barney was quite popular. His manners were genial, his disposition generous, and from Richmond to Norfolk, including both cities, as well as Petersburg, he was widely and favorably known. THE OUTLOOK GOOD.

DEMOCRATS HOPE TO CARRY VIR-

GET NEARLY ALL THE CONGRESSMEN That Is What They Expect to Do-

The Condition of Affairs in the

The political outlook in Virginia is most ncouraging to the Democrata. They be lieve that after the turmoil of the recent conventions much of the discontent among members of the party will have subsided, and that many voters who have been contemplating voting for McKinley and Hobart will fall back into line with the balance of the Democracy.

Careful leaders in the Democratic party stimate that Virginia will go for Bryan and Sewall this fall by anywhere from 30,000 to 50,000 majority, and calculate that the Democrats will elect at least eight out of the ten congressmen from this State, if not all ten of them.

in the First District, where Congressman William A. Jones has been renominated, William A. Jones has been renominated, it is believed that he will carry the district by a larger majority than he has ever done. Mr. Jones has for several years been recognized as a leader of the silver movement in the Old Dominion, and his strength has materially increased in the inst year or so because of his constatency and his superior ability as a representative of the people.

ON QUESTIONABLE GROUND.

Hon. D. Gardiner Tyler, who is a candidate for the renomination for Congress from the Second District, is very strong, and will make a very good run if renominated. This is questionable ground, how-ever, and the Democrats have got to put up a good fight to keep out Borland or some of the other Republicans from the Norfolk section.

The fight in the Third District is a bably be urged to run on a sound-money platform by the business-men of the city, has not as yet been formally approached about the matter. He is, therefore, not prepared to say anything on this subject. One wing of the Republican party is urging Judge L. L. Lewis, former president of the Supreme Court of Appenis of Virginia, to accept the nomination for Congress from that party, but he has not given the leaders any encouragement in this direction.

District, which is known as the "blackbelt," will largely depend upon who is nominated. Mr. Thorpe, at present, holds the seat in Congress from this district. This fall he will probably have as his opponent, Mr. Sidney P. Epes, the Register of the Land Office, who is a prominent politician and newspaper man from Blackstone. There has been some talk, however, of endeavoring to bring out Judge William H. Mann, of Nottoway, but it is not known that Judge Mann would accept the nomination. A good, strong man could certainly carry in old Fluxana.

Senator Jones having thus postponed his visit, Chairman Faulkner, of the Congrossional Committee, will run up to Martinsburg this afternoon and spend Sunday in the mountains with his family.

Senator Faulkner this morning indulged in a little good-natured fun at the expense of Vice-Chairman Apsley, of the Republican Committee.

That gentleman recently said that there was no free-silver sentiment in New England. Mr. Faulkner quoted a letter from Massachusetts to show that in Mr. Apsley's home, Hudson, Mass, the Independent had come out for free silver, and that a Bryan free-silver club had also been organized in the home of the vice-chairman of the Republican Committee.

In the Fifth District the Democrats are stronger than for years, and Mr. Swanson will be returned to his seat in Congress by a large majority. Mr. Swanson was renominated a few days ago.

Major Peter J. Otey will be renominated in the Sixth, which will certainly be Democratic this year. The differences in the party which have existed there have been healed by the adoption of the free Hay will probably be the standard bearer, Major S. S. Turner having declined to run. the Eighth District. The present incumbent is Mr. E. E. Meredith, who has strong opposition in Mr. Rixley and Mr.

The Ninth District convention will be held next Wednesday at Wythcyllle. The

It appears that a systematic effort was made by their leaders to keep them away, thus showing that they are afraid for their voters to hear both sides. This is in line with Russell's refusal of Watson's challenge to a joint discussion.

POLICE AT WORK NOW

THEY HAVE THE DONNELLA CASE

CERTAINLY LOOKS LIKE MURDER.

When It Was Recovered, and,

Therefore, Douth Could Not Have Resulted from Drowning.

The Richmond police now have in hand than probable that some arrests will be made in it within the next forty-eight hours, though so far as could be learned last night no warrants had been swore

The exclusive announcement in yester day's Dispatch of the verdict of the Warwick county coroner's jury was the first intimation the police of this city had that Frank Donella came to his death other than through accident, and when later to the day Mr. George W. Grant, the deof course, they have not yet been able to ferret out the murderer, if it be true that Donnella was murdered, but they are diligently at work on the various circumstances of the case, and these may lead them on to clews.

NO WATER IN HIS LUNGS. NO WATER IN HIS LUNGS.

There seems to be no doubt that young Donnella was murdered before his body went into the water, and he must have been dead before he sank, as he had not swallowed any water, as is always the case with drowned persons. The post-mortem held in Warwick county failed to reveal any indications that the deconsed had come to his death by drowning, and there wasn't the slightest vestige of water in his lungs.

come to his death by drowning, and there wasn't the slightest vestige of water in his lungs.

This, coupled with the fact that the body has a wound in the chest probably 3 or 4 inches deep, certainly tends to show that the young man did not die an accidental death. He certainly fell over the side of the ship, though, and no one pushed him over, as some had been inclined to think. Probably the closest num to lim when he went overboard was Mr. Clarke, a young salesman for Mr. C. C. Kady, who was sitting on the rail of the vessel on the lower deck in front of the saleon.

He said to a Dispatch man yesterday that he saw Donnella after the fight which occurred on the second deck, and that some little time after quiet had been restored, Donnella descended to the lewer deck and lay down on the floor and went to sleep. About daylight the deceased awoke and receing back against the rail he lost his balance and went headlong into the water. Mr. Clarke say that no one was near enough to Donnella to push him over nor to save him, and that no one was mear enough to Donnella to push him over nor to save him, and that no one was with him for some time before he went overboard.

WHERE HE GOT THE WOUND.

If he sustained a wound sufficiently dangerous to have produced death, Mr. Clarke says it must have been given him clarke says it must have been given him in the light or very shortly thereafter, for he certainly didn't get it while he lay on the floor or after he rose to his feet and staggered to the side of the ship. Mr. Clarke told the Dispatch man that he heard a pistol shot shortly after the boat passed through Dutch Gap, but thought then and thinks now, that it emanated from a little row-boat which the Poceahontus passed.

thought then and thinks now, that it emanated from a little row-boat which the Pocahontas passed.

Donnella was accompanied on the excursion by Messra. George Timberlaka and Harry C. Thurston, both of whom were very good friends of his. When his body was found Donnella had in one of his pockets the return tickets of both these young gentlemen.

Young Donnella's funeral took place from his brother-in-law's residence yesterday morning, and his remains were interred in Hollywood. Rev. Preston Nash conducted the services and the funeral was very largely attended. Another examination was made of the body before it was finally placed beneath the ground, and those who examined the wound are bow inclined to the belief that it was made by a knife instead of a builet, and they account for its also and shape by the fact that the body remained in the water so long that the hole puckered up and almost closed.

DON'T THINK IT WAS MURDER.
The officers of the Virginia Navigation Company are loth to believe that Donnella was murdered, but rather think that the hole in his breast was made by fishes or by a stake which he might have come in contact with when failing overboard. This may probably be a solution of the whole matter, but the case certainly has a serious aspect and there are many suspictous circumstances there are many suspicious circumstances surrounding it, and the murder theory is by no means an untenable one. At yet the detectives have been unable to ascertain positively who participated in the fight on board ship.

Another Mass-Meeting for Children The children's mass-meeting held last Sunday afternoon, under the tent, at the corner of Marshall and Harrison streets, was so much enjoyed by the little ones that Rev. W. S. Leake, the Baptist city missionary, has concluded to have a similar meeting this afternoon at 5 o'clock. After a brief service of song by the children Mr. Leake will preach a sermon calculated to please and instruct his juvenile hearers.
